Order of 60.000 softwarelicenses goes to FastPassCorp

With a software order of 60.000 licenses in December 2008 closed on a high for the Danish software development company FastPassCorp, which is listed on NASDAQ OMX Nordic Exchange, First North.

While the international financial crisis is raging FastPassCorp has received an order for software to 60.000 it users from a Swedish customer. The order covers the FastPass Password Manager software, which eliminated password related calls to the customers IT Help Desk by making it possible for the it-users to help themselves when they forget a password. This way FastPass Password Manager remove thousands of calls annually to the IT-help desk about forgotten passwords. se sig ind på systemer, databaser eller applikationer.

The customer does not at this time want his name published, however it is Swedish customer. The order was facilitated by one of FastPassCorps international partners.

"The order show that our focus on superior product quality and establishment of international sales capabilities is creating results", says CEO Finn Jensen.

The order will not affect the expectations of the financial year 2008.
